

Join

There are two levels of membership at Cooperative Gallery 213:

Supporting Memberships are always open, always available, and always affordably priced. All you need to join is an interest in supporting the arts. You needn't be an artist. But if you are an artist, a Supporting Membership can be a way to meet and work with other artists, to show your work at a prime gallery location, and to enjoy support from both the gallery and the larger arts community. Supporting Membership looks great on your resume, too.

Exhibiting Memberships are limited in number, so there are openings only when someone leaves the gallery organization. Exhibiting Members are working artists, and go through an interview, jury, and voting process to join. Exhibiting Members also pay significantly higher dues. (Contact the Membership committee – cooperativegallery213@gmail.com – for more information.)

HOW TO GET INVOLVED

Cooperative Gallery 213 is just that: a cooperative. The members actually run the gallery. There is no curator, no sales staff or receptionist: no kitchen or maintenance staff, no clean-up crew. It's all "us" – and that can mean you, too.

To start getting involved, check off an interest or two, or more, on the application form on the next page.

As a Supporting Member of Cooperative Gallery 213, you can be as active, or not, as you choose to be. Be as hands-on or hands-off as you like. You're always welcome.
